ROOSEVELT THE MAN AT HARDINSBURG.

Progressive Party Has a Meeting Saturday--Delegates Are Named to Elizabethtown--A Cloverport Man Was Chairman--Men Are Determined to Have a Square Deal.

RESOLUTIONS WERE ADOPTED

The Progressive Party movement in Breckenridge county took real tangible shape in a meeting of the followers of Teddy Roosevelt at Hardinsburg last Saturday. While the meeting was not largely attended on account of irregular train service and busy times with farmers, there were present a few determined men, battling for their rights and the cause of good government, to organize and put in shape the machinery necessary to carry on a great fight for civic righteousness in politics.

The leaders of the movement said they were not sore-heads, nor politicians out of a job, nor did they want a job, but what they wanted was clean politics, honest politics, a square deal and a majority rule. They condemned crooked leaders and one-man-boss rule.

The convention was called to order promptly at one o'clock. Jesse R. Eskridge stated the object of the meeting, and Judge Wm. Ahl put in nomination R. T. Polk for Chairman. Candor Black was chosen Secretary.

The Convention then got down to business, adopted the following resolutions and named delegates to Elizabethtown Convention.

At a convention of the Progressives in Breckenridge county held at Hardinsburg, last Saturday, Mr. R. T. Polk of Cloverport was elected chairman, and Mr. Oscar Black of Addison secretary. Upon motion and second the chair appointed the following as a committee on resolutions: J. R. Eskridge, W. B. Phelps, John Rankins, McHenry Dowell, Boyd McKaughn, and Charley Chamberlain.

This committee retired and brought in the following resolutions: Resolved by the Progressives of Breckenridge county in convention assembled:

(1) We approve of the call for a National Convention to be held at Chicago on August 5, 1912 to nominate a candidate for president and vice-president, and we approve of the call of the Hon. Leslie Combs for the county mass conventions to be held in each county in the State to select delegates to attend congressional district conventions to be held August 1, 1912, for the purpose of selecting delegates to attend

FATHER CELESTINE BREY

Held His Last Service--At Rose Catholic Church Sunday. Large Congregation To Bid Him Farewell

Father Brey left yesterday morning for Louisville where he will have charge of the Holy Cross church pastorate. He will be succeeded here by Father Henry.

It is needless to say how Cloverport loathes the departure of Father Brey—the non-Catholics as well as the members of his own flock are grieved to give him up. Although, quite a young man, he has become an old and dear friend to this town during his pastorate at St. Rose. He said the best fifteen years of his life has been spent in Cloverport. Father Brey built up the church here wonderfully. He stimulated the spiritual life of the church, improved the social side, and increased the membership. The children, he took particular pains to instruct and carefully train for thorough religious life.

Father Brey also had charge of the Hawesville Catholic church, and in that mission there is the same source of regret as exists here. One of the secrets of the transfer is, that Holy Cross expects to build a new church and the Bishop thought Father Brey was the man especially suited for that task as well as for the other duties of a city pastorate.

Drury--Younger.

Invitations have been received by friends here to attend the marriage of Miss Willa Jeannetta Drury to Mr. James Skillman Younger at the Baptist church in Irvington Thursday evening, August the eighth, at 8:30 o'clock.

Miss Rebecca Willis Has Novel Experience.

Miss Rebecca Willis has arrived home from Louisville. She had a novel experience of being held a prisoner on the late passenger train Sunday night, July 20, which was imprisoned on Otter Creek trestle from ten o'clock to nine-thirty the next morning. On both sides of the trestle the track was covered by an avalanche of mud from the hill-side as a result of the heavy storm that raged for several hours.

Miss Willis said: "I wasn't a bit scared and I had to laugh when I read in the paper that the passengers went to farm houses and cooked breakfast. This was not so. Some of the men went to a farm house and got breakfast, one brought me a piece of fried chicken. There was a basket of light bread in the baggage car. We had lots of fun and got to Louisville at four o'clock Monday afternoon." Mr. and Mrs. Walter O'Neil, Mr. Garvin Smith and Mr. Kimbell, of this city, were on the train also. Mr. Richard Stites was conductor.

Only One Bill Claycomb.

Bill Claycomb, who was injured in the wreck on the L. H. & St. L. branch a fortnight ago, is getting along fine. He said it was a good thing it was the engine ruined instead of him, because a new locomotive could be made, but there could not be another Bill Claycomb.

At The Castle.

Dr. McDonald gave an informal dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mattingly at The Castle Wednesday

County Chairman.

DR. S. P. PARKS.

Dr. S. P. Parks, of Irvington, was selected by the Progressive Party as Chairman of the County Campaign Committee. Louis H. Jolly was named as Secretary. Dr. Parks says he is in the fight and intends to make a thorough organization in the county; have speakers in every precinct and make the best fight he knows how to make. He says he is a Republican and believes in the principles of his party, but he is not in league with Taft methods and the steal made at Chicago.

THOU SHALT NOT STEAL

Commandment Handed Down At Sinai Confronts Taftites Everywhere In Kentucky.

TELEGRAPHED TO ROOSEVELT

Louisville, Ky., July 27.—"Thou shalt not steal," the commandment handed down at Sinai, confronted the Taft Republicans in every section of Kentucky today when life was breathed into the National Progressive party in 119 counties. On every hand the greatest enthusiasm was manifested and last night the Louisville leaders and Leslie Combs and other state leaders were jubilant. The result of the days' work, which meant the establishment in Kentucky of another big political party was telegraphed to Oyster Bay.

The most surprising part of the county conventions was the attendance of men who were thought to be so closely identified with the old Republican party that they would be unable, even if they wanted to, to break away from the old traditions and the old associations. Indeed, the new party leaders expected hundreds of men who believe in the commandment, "Thou Shalt Not Steal," to still identify themselves with the Taft wing of the Republican party. The reports show, however, that hundreds of oldtime Republican leaders and many former Democrats participated in the county conventions.

At Owensboro George W. Jolly, former United States district attorney, was one of the leaders in the mass convention, while at Frankfort Prentice O'Rear, son of former Chief Justice Edward C. O'Rear, was temporary chairman of the Franklin county convention. The delegates elected were directed to attend the various district conventions to be held on August 1. At the district conventions two delegates to the Chicago convention will be elected.

Comb. Will be a State Delegate.

Of the district delegates to the Chicago convention from the state at large, Leslie Combs of Lexington, the state leader, is practically certain to be one of the two elected, as his services to the new party merit the high honor.

When the district conventions are held it will then be decided whether nominations shall be made in the various congressional districts.

The Eleventh district convention, which will be held at Corbin, is almost certain to nominate a candidate to oppose Caleb Powers, and the Tenth district convention, which is to be held at Paintsville, may select an opponent for John Langley.

The district conventions will be held as follows: The First district will meet at Paducah, the Second at Henderson, the Third at Bowling Green, the Fourth at Elizabethtown, the Sixth at Covington, the Seventh at Lexington, the Eighth at Danville, the Ninth at Ashland, the Tenth at Paintsville, the Eleventh at Corbin.

Hay Ride To Tar Springs.

Ruther Pate, who was seventeen July the twenty-seventh, and Fred Pierce, who was eighteen July the twenty-sixth celebrated their birthday anniversaries Friday afternoon by giving a hay ride to Tar Springs. They were chaperoned by Miss Lizzie Skillman and had a merry time at the resort, skating and dancing and singing. A fine luncheon was served in picnic fashion on the hotel lawn before the guests returned home. Members of the happy party were furnished the hay-wagon and driven safely and on time by Messrs. William Leslie and David Allen. They were: Misses Virginia McGavock, Leonora McGavock, Mary Gibson, Jeannette Burn, Isabel Burn, Bertha Walls, Eloise Nolte, Elizabeth Skillman, Addie Fairleigh, Mildred Babbage, Juanita Carr, Claudia Pate, Martha Miller, Susette Sawyer, Frances Sawyer, chaperone, Miss Lizzie Skillman, Messrs. Fred Pierce, Ruther Pate, Randall Weatherholt, Eldred Babbage, Walter Hawkins, John Jarboe, Frank Moorman, Dwight Randall and Libbon Smith.

Mr. Jake Milburn Dead.

Jake Milburn, of Custer, died July 20 and was buried by the Masonic lodge at Custer Sunday. He was an old and well-known citizen of that community. He leaves a wife and ten children, all living and all present at the funeral. Brother Jim Mitcham conducted the funeral.

BRECKENRIDGE COUNTY FAIR ASSOCIATION

Plans A Good Show This Year. Fair Grounds Prettier Than Ever--Big Crowds Expected. Three Big Days With Fine Programs--Clean Concessions And New Amusements.

SEVERAL TENT SHOWS ON.

Can you realize its time for the county fair again—that a whole year has slipped by since you had those jolly days? The Breckenridge County Fair is going to be far better than expected. On account of the heavy rains and other happenings to discommode plans, many have thought the Fair would fall short this season, but the Association has given out information that their show will be of the same class—with more amusements and cleaner concessions than were had last year.

To prove that the fair will be unusual can be learned through the advertisements which announce a bull race, the only tournament of this kind ever held in Kentucky. The premium list is large and liberal. A. T. Beard, president, and John M. Skillman, secretary, are confident of a great fair. Tent shows galore and worth seeing amusements will be on. Finest stables ever shown in the fair's history and other attractions up to the notch of perfection.

Mr. Murray Pierce Dead.

Murray Pierce died after several weeks illness of diabetes at his home in Muskogee, Okla., Saturday afternoon. He leaves a wife and one son. He was a brother of Robert Pierce, of this city, and Mrs. Robert White and Mrs. Nat Wilson, of Port Worth, Texas.

Mr. Pierce was forty-eight years of age and was a member of one of the oldest and most prominent families of Cloverport. He went west in 1897 and had been succeeding in newspaper advertising business six years. The funeral and burial was held at Muskogee.

Dinner Party.

Mrs. Sallie Moorman gave a beautiful dinner Sunday in honor of Misses Emmy Lou Moorman and Louise Moorman, who have had a great deal of social attention here. The guests were: Miss Moorman, Misses Moorman, Miss Heyser, Messrs. Frank Moorman and Robert Moorman, Dr. McDonald and Dr. Boone.

LODGE

Substitute For House Free Sugar Bill. Passes The Senate With Only Three Negative Votes, One Republican And Two Democrats

Washington, July 27.—By a vote of 52 to 3 the senate this evening passed the Lodge substitute for the house free sugar bill. There were three negative votes—Heyburn, Republican, Idaho; Foster and Thornton, Democrats, Louisiana. The measure proposes a reduction of the pure sugar duty from $1.82 to $1.60 the hundred. In effect, there is a further cut of 10 cents the hundred in the abolition of the differential, and does away with the dutch standard of classifying sugar.

Senator Bristow, Republican, Kansas, said tonight that the Lodge bill would reduce the government revenue $5,000,000, and the American sugar consumers would save $22,000,000 a year. After six hours debate and voting the proposed amendments were turned down.

Popular Campaign Subscriptions

It is good news, and not for Governor Wilson and the Democrats only, that small subscriptions for campaign expenses are flowing into Sea Girt multitudinously.

Those expenses, even if cut down to the narrowest necessity, take a lot of money. Laws and a chastened public sentiment, and possibly also their own reluctance, weariness or groutiness, prevent the old accustomed milking of the corporations and the plutocrats.

It is well if the people's hand is to take the place of the capitalist's hitherto perennially pulled "leg"; if the ancient blackmail is no more; if, to put the best face on an ugly habit, a party can go into and through a canvass with no angelic aid, with no suspicion of implied or possible obligation to anybody but the mass of its members.

Of course the Roosevelt or Moosis party is a privileged exception and keeps a herd of unusual good "milkers" and great yielders. Not for nothing does its totem, the four legged Moosis, wear a bag or pouch at his throat.—N. Y. Sun.

If This Had Happened Elsewhere
Instead Of Cloverport You

The average man is a doubter. This is not surprising—the public have been humbugged so frequently they are skeptical. Proof like the following will stand investigation. It cannot be disputed.

J. C. Weatherholt, grocer, Cloverport, Ky., says: "Two years ago I had little idea that I would ever be well again, in fact, I had settled up my affairs, believing that it would be impossible for me to last a great while longer. The pain in my back was terrible, especially when I stooped and it seemed as if someone had run a knife into me. My heart action was irregular. I became dizzy and often had to catch hold of something to keep from falling. My knee joints were swollen twice their normal size and I had lost weight until I was a mere skeleton. The kidney secretions contained sediment and the passages were painful. Doctors' medicine did me no good, neither did the so called kidney cures I took. A friend had been cured by Doan's Kidney Pills and on his advice, I decided to give this remedy a trial, procuring my supply at Fisher's Drug Store. I was surprised and delighted with the results of its use and I continued taking them until I was cured." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. The Artist's Need.

"Murder in Any Degree is the title of a story by Owen Johnson, author of 'Stover at Yale' in the August Century, in which the leading character of the story, a genius who fails to produce, says:

"Do you know what is the great essential to the artist—to who ever creates? The sense of privacy; the power to isolate his own genius from everything in the world, to be absolutely concentrated. To create we must be alone, have strange, unuttered thoughts, just as in the realms of the soul every human being must have moments of complete isolation—thoughts, reveries, moods, that cannot be shared with even those we love best. You don't understand that."

"Yes, I do."

"At the bottom we human beings come and depart absolutely alone. Friendship, love, all that we instinctively seek to rid ourselves of, this awful solitude of the soul, avail nothing. Well, what others shrink from, the artist must seek."

FOR PRESIDENT

WOODROW WILSON

FOR VICE PRESIDENT

THOMAS R. MARSHALL

FOR REPRESENTATIVE

BEN JOHNSON

The Hon. Leslie Combs, the Roosevelt leader, is dee-lighted.

A NEW REGIME.

Of the new figures that are assuming National prominence by reason of the nomination of Woodrow Wilson, as the Democratic candidate for President William F. McCombs is of special interest. A contemporary in commenting on the Baltimore convention says:

ONE YOUNG MAN.

In the felicitations let us not forget McCombs. His youth and fineness are the measure of how far we have traveled since the sordid fat fryers who were the President-makers of a decade ago. He was not a boss nor in any sense a politician, just a young Princeton man who had sat under Wilson's teaching and gauged the quality of his mind and character. Without funds or influential associations, he began the Wilson movement by having his stenographer utilize her spare time in sending copies of the Governor's speeches to the newspapers; and until it gathered headway from its own momentum, that's all the Wilson boom there was. McCombs is a son of Arkansas, another example of the growing influence of Southern young men in politics. He has performed an important service, and his reward in public appreciation will be large. He was no less an amateur, and had no more facilities than hundreds of other young men who should be stimulated to imitate him; about three hundred such ought to displace the old timers in Congress this fall. This is a year for amateurs in politics.

Truly may Mr. McCombs' example be an inspiration to the young Democrats of America, as Woodrow Wilson's nomination gives promise of a new regime under which high ideals, a desire to serve, and trust in the people, instead of the control of party machinery, and subserviency to special interests, will win conspicuity and success.—Lexington Herald.

It's an awful thing to see a grand old party go to pieces.

THE RAILROAD APPRECIATED THIS WEEK.

Ernest Robertson, of Glen Dean, had three cars of stock ready for shipment when traffic shut down on the railroad. B. P. Wilson, of Irvington, drove a car load through by land. Several stock dealers found themselves tied up with more or less stock on hand. Jim Biggs, at Irvington, hauled all of his poultry and eggs to Brandenburg. Cloverport shippers were fortunate in having boats and a good stage of water. Everybody can realize how important a railroad is to our every movement; how business is affected. Every phase of human endeavor is crippled when a railroad ceases to operate.

We will be at Glen Dean next Saturday to see the women vote.

THE DUTY ON SUGAR.

You consumers and users of sugar and stand-pat Republicans, how does the following strike you? Whenever a housewife buys a dollar's worth of sugar she gets only seventy cents worth of sugar, the other thirty cents of her dollar being for the duty. Moreover, every can of preserved fruit, every jar of jam and jelly, every piece of candy, every glass of soda water, and even every stick of chewing gum, must yield its share of the inexorable demand of the Government and the beet sugar interests. How much longer do you want to pay tribute to the Government and the Beet Sugar refineries? Elect the Democratic ticket and see if you won't buy your sugar for at least two cents a pound less!

We have gone back to our first love—the boats—for travelling this week.

HONORS THEIR DIRECTORS.

The Bank of Hardinsburg & Trust Company has paid a handsome tribute to the memory of its first board of directors, all of whom are dead, except Mr. B. F. Beard. The bank has had crayon portraits, life size, made from their pictures. The arrangement of these in the office gives a distinguished air to the place, and shows a fraternal, sincere respect for those who first served the bank with their mind and strength and heart. They were: Wm. Miller, Col. Lafe Green, Morris Eskridge, R. M. Jolly and G. W. Beard.

About the loneliest looking people we meet now are Taft Republicans.

Most of the country people come to town on Friday now—and it would be a great relief to the stores and their men if they would close at one o'clock on Saturday afternoon. This is done in the city during the hot weather and the country merchants should take hold of the plan. Why can't we be as alert in the country as those are in the city by directing our energy in the right way and at the right time. Town people would soon get in the habit of ordering their supplies for Sunday on Saturday morning. Oh, can't we, as business men see, that it is a practical saying that all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. After all, we are only grown up children and unless we have a little recreation, a little spice of life, we become dwarfed and narrow minded in working for the almighty dollar. Some of us could keep our nose to the grindstone twenty-four hours a day and then not become wealthy. If it is impossible to be rich, why not make it possible to be poor, but happy, the latter can be done. O, ye merchants, close up on Saturday afternoons, if you cannot see your way clear to that, at least, stop at 6 P. M. and you will never know the difference ten years hence.

There never was a better time in the world for Democrats to pull together than right now.

Gov. Wilson had received by July the twenty-first $65,000. He is receiving two classes of mail, letters containing money and letters from Republicans who say they are going to vote the Democratic ticket this fall. Were the Democratic nominee to receive letters from Breckenridge county Republicans who are going to do that same thing, he would get a neat bunch of mail.

A prominent fruit grower of New York State writes: Although never a Democrat, this year I am going to vote for Gov. Wilson, not as a Democrat, but as a man, in the largest meaning of the word. My influence will be for you.

Col. Robert Ewing has written him that he will raise $30,000, and Norman E. Mack has started a popular subscription with the first person to give $1,000. With vote buying cut out and also whiskey, it ought not to take so much money to run an honest, fair and square campaign. The best methods come high, but as far as money is concerned, they are the most economical and do not cost so much after all.

The proposed National Convention of the new Progressive party will meet at Chicago next Monday, August 5.

We are told that Woodrow Wilson is going to introduce something new in his system of campaign, new in the art of campaigning in this coming Presidential election. The old tricks and devices heretofore resorted to, to carry the election, will be cut out, and the canvass is to be made on strictly legitimate lines. The old idea to run them in, in blocks of five, and to bribe voters in the different states by a political organized machine will not be tolerated. It is to be an honest campaign, conducted upon legal lines. Contributions from the Trusts and big corporations will not be asked for either. Mr. Wilson will have the co-operation and support of the National Committee, and many other men of high standing in the country, but all political schemes, and doubtful devices for carrying the country will be strictly ignored.

Just wait until Col. Blanford and Dr. Parks get on the raging stump. Then there ought to be some fun for Democrats.

Mr. Bryan told the Kansas City Post that he was unwilling to make a statement in regard to Champ Clark in the Baltimore convention. "I do not know why I should discuss the matter," he said. "He is the Democratic candidate for Congress in his district and I am anxious to see him elected."

"I would rather that his friends should criticize me than that my friends should criticize him. I am not a candidate for anything and I will wait until after the election to answer any criticisms that may be directed against me for my part in the matter."

This is the true Democratic spirit. It is a pity Mr. Clark's friends can't show the same kindly spirit towards Mr. Bryan.

We are all rejoicing over the weed cutting by the Town Street Committee this week. It's just fine to see clean streets and pavements.

All of the coverings used for cotton bales and most of the bags that are necessary in the marketing of stock foods, fertilizers and the like are made of jute. The jute or jute butts used in the manufacture of the coverings must all be imported, since none can be grown in this country. They all come in free as raw materials for the gunning cloth and burlap manufacturers, but these men demand a 27 per cent tariff protection. The Republican party has given it to them. The result has been to build a trust which furnishes about four-fifths of the entire domestic need for bagging.

That was a nice little check Mayor Head, of Louisville, received last Monday. It was given for the city's stock in the Gas Company, and called for $1,387,500.

Sam Isen, a Russian leper, is in Philadelphia with all home comforts. He has a bed exclusively his own, tableware he may take with him wherever he goes, meals suited to his condition and Russian cigarettes to keep him in a good humor. Philadelphia will entertain him indefinitely. Cloverport has no lepers, but has young men and small boys who smoke so many cigarettes that their clothes are saturated with tobacco and just passing them on the streets the odor can be detected. We wish our boys could realize the perils of cigarettes.

Common salt used by every family in the United States pays a tariff tax of 50 per cent. Salt used in the curing of fish and salt used in the curing of meats comes in free of tax.

In Philadelphia a mill hand shot a man who teased him. It is annoying to be constantly teased and nagged at even in a pleasant way. One should try to be sociable and agreeable by another method besides teasing. Persons who tease, can endure less teasing than any others. A little teasing about something one likes and is proud of is relished, but otherwise no one enjoys it thoroughly all the time.

The picnickers are surely having their troubles this season. Last Saturday was the first bright day they have had. Even the clouds were in sight then and kept the crowds away.

The London Dogs Magazine gives a write-up of a "Billikin tea" given by a society woman in honor of her dog. Mrs. A. L. Holland, one of our own American women, gave such a little fete at the Waldorf recently and it is said the British society folks are copying the idea. Every dog lover loves a dog and everybody who knows "Nell," the little white dog at Mrs. Williams' store, likes her, but as yet Cloverport has given no banquet in honor of Nell.

There never was as much hustling among the farmers as right now. They are staying at home putting in good work while the sun shines. It takes rain and floods to make men hustle.

The Republican party born in glory fifty-six years ago is dead. It owes its death to men like Root and Barnes of New York, Penrose of Pennsylvania, Crane of Massachusetts, Guggenheim of Colorado, and Bradley of Kentucky. They controlled the convention at Chicago which nominated Taft contrary to the will of the majority of the people.

Next Saturday is picnic day at Glen Dean. This is not a local neighborhood affair, but a tri-county gathering conducted by the Masons of Glen Dean lodge. Better take a day off and attend.

You may say what you please about that little meeting at the Court House last Saturday, but it means something. It means a new line-up and three parties in the field, not only for next November but for the following November. And some of the fellows who think they have a walkover for the county offices will find themselves sadly mistaken.

The country school trustee elections will be held Saturday, Aug. 3. The election will be viva voce instead of by ballot as heretofore, and the women will be permitted to vote for trustees for the first time in the history of the State. The women in Breckenridge county must vote.

CHAPTER XXIX.

Jealousy Comes Aboard.

There was an air of domestic peace in the observation room, where Mallory and Marjorie had been left to themselves for some time. But the peace was like the ominous hush that precedes a tempest.

Mallory was so happy with everything coming his way, that he was even making up with Snoozeleums, stroking the tattooed coat with one hand and holding up his newspaper with the other. He did not know all that was coming his way. The blissful silence was broken first by Marjorie: "How do you spell Utah?—with a y?"

"Utah begins with You," he said—and rather liked his wit, listened for some recognition, and rose to get it, but she waved him away.

"Don't bother me, honey. Can't you see I'm busy?"

He kissed her hair and sauntered back, dividing his attention between Snoozeleums and the ten-inning game.

And now there was a small commotion in the smoking room. Through the glass along the corridor the men caught sight of the girl who had got on at Green River. Ashton saw her first and she saw him.

"There she goes," Ashton hissed to the others, "look quick! There's the nectarine."

"My word! She's a little bit of all right, isn't she?"

Even Dr. Temple stared at her with approval: "Dear little thing, isn't she?"

The girl, very consciously unconscious of the admiration, moved demurely along, with eyes downcast, but at such an angle that she could take in the sensation she was creating; she went along picking up stares as if they were bouquets.

Her demeanor was a remarkable compromise between outrageous flirtation and perfect respectability. But she was looking back so intently that when she moved into the observation room she walked right into the newspaper Mallory was holding out before him.

Both said: "I beg your pardon." When Mallory lowered the paper, both stared till their eyes almost popped. Her amazement was one of immediate rapture. He looked as if he would have been much obliged for a volcanic crater to sink into.

"Harry!" she gasped, and let fall her handbag.

"Kitty!" he gasped, and let fall his newspaper. Both bent, he handed her the newspaper and tossed the handbag into a chair; saw his mistake, withdrew the newspaper and proffered her Snoozeleums. Marjorie stopped writing, pen poised in air, as if she had suddenly been petrified.

The newcomer was the first to speak. She fairly gushed: "Harry Mallory—of all people!"

"Kitty! Kathleen! Miss Lewellyn!" "Just to think of meeting you again."

"Just to think of it." "And on this train of all places." "On this train of all places!"

"Oh, Harry, Harry!" "Oh, Kitty, Kitty, Kitty!" "You dear fellow, it's so long since I saw you last."

"So long." "It was at that last hop at West Point, remember?—why, it seems only yesterday, and how well you are looking. You are well, aren't you?"

"Not very." He was mopping his brow in anguish, and yet the room seemed strangely cold.

"Of course you look much better in your uniform. You aren't wearing your uniform, are you?"

"No, this is not my uniform." "You haven't left the army, have you?"

"I don't know yet." "Don't ever do that. You are just beautiful in brass buttons."

"Thanks." "Harry!" "What's the matter now?"

"This tie, this green tie, isn't this the one I knitted you?"

"I am sure I don't know, I borrowed it from the conductor."

"Don't you remember? I did knit you one."

"Did you? I believe you did! I think I wore it out."

"Oh, you fickle boy. But see what I have. What's this?"

He stared through the glass eyes of complete helplessness. "It looks like a bracelet."

"Don't tell me you don't remember this!—the little bangle bracelet you gave me."

"Did I give you a bayleed branglet?"

"Of course you did. And the inscription. Don't you remember it?"

She held her wrist in front of his aching eyes and he perused as if it were his own epitaph, what she read aloud for him. "From Harry to Kitty, the Only Girl I Ever Loved."

"Good night!" he sighed to himself, and began to mop his brow with Snoozeleums.

"You put it on my arm," said Kathleen, with a moonlight sigh, "and I've always worn it."

"Always?" "Always! no matter whom I was engaged to."

The desperate wretch, who had not dared even to glance in Marjorie's direction, somehow thought he saw a straw of self-defense. "You were engaged to three or four others when I was at West Point."

"I may have been engaged to the others," said Kathleen, moon-eyeing him, "but I always liked you best, Clifford—er, Tommy—I mean Harry."

"You got me at last."

Kathleen fenced back at this: "Well, I've no doubt you have had a dozen affairs since."

"Oh, no! My heart has only known one real love." He threw this over her head at Marjorie, but Kathleen seized it, to his greater confusion:

"Oh, Harry, how sweet of you to say it. It makes me feel positively faint," and she swooned his way, but he shoved a chair forward and let her collapse into that. Thinking and hoping that she was unconscious, he made ready to escape, but she caught him by the coat, and moaned: "Where am I?" and he growled back:

"In the Observation Car!"

Kathleen's life and enthusiasm returned without delay: "Fancy meeting you again! I could just scream."

"So could I."

"You must come up in our car and see mamma."

"Is Ma-mamma with you?" Mallory stammered, on the verge of imbecility.

"Oh, yes, indeed, we're going around the world."

"Don't let me detain you."

"Papa is going round the world also."

"Is papa on this train, too?"

At last something seemed to embarrass her a trifle: "No, papa went on ahead. Mamma hopes to overtake him. But papa is a very good traveler."

Then she changed the subject. "Do come and meet mamma. It would cheer her up so. She is so fond of you. Only this morning she was saying, 'Of all the boys you were ever engaged to, Kathleen, the one I like most of all was Edgar—I mean Clarence—er—Harry Mallory.'"

"Awfully kind of her."

"You must come and see her—she's some stouter now!"

"Oh, is she? Well, that's good."

Mallory was too angry to be sane, and too helpless to take advantage of his anger. He wondered how he could ever have cared for this molasses and mulligan girl. He remembered now that she had always had these same cloying ways. She had always paved him and, like everybody but the powers, he hated pawing.

It would have been bad enough at any time to have Kathleen hanging on his coat, straightening his tie, leaning close, smiling up in his eyes, losing him his balance, recapturing him every time he edged away. But with Marjorie as the grim witness it was maddening.

He loathed and abominated Kathleen Llewellyn, and if she had only been a man, he could cheerfully have beaten her to a pulp and chucked her out of the window. But because she was a helpless little baggage he had to be as polite as he could while she sat and tore his plans to pieces, embittered Marjorie's heart against him, and either ended all hopes of their marriage, or furnished an everlasting rancor to be recalled in every quarrel to their dying day. Oh, etiquette, what injustices are endured in thy name!

So there he sat, sweating his soul's blood, and able only to spar for time and wonder when the gong would ring. And now she was off on a new tack:

"And where are you bound for, Harry, dear?"

"The Philippines," he said, and for the first time there was something beautiful in their remoteness.

"Perhaps we shall cross the Pacific on the same boat."

The first sincere smile he had experienced came to him: "I go on an army transport, fortu—unfortunately."

"Oh, I just love soldiers. Couldn't mamma and I go on the transport? Mamma is very fond of soldiers, too."

"I'm afraid it couldn't be arranged."

"Too bad, but perhaps we can stop off and pay you a visit. I just love army posts. So does mamma."

"Oh, do!"

"What will be your address?"

"Just the Philippines—just the Philippines."

"But aren't there quite a few of them?"

"Only about two thousand."

"Which one will you be on?"

"I'll be on the third from the left," said Mallory, who neither knew nor cared what he was saying. Marjorie had endured all that she could stand. She rose in a tightly leashed fury.

"I'm afraid I'm in the way."

Kathleen turned in surprise. She had not noticed that anyone was near. Mallory went out of his head completely. "Oh, don't go—for heaven's sake don't go," he appealed to Marjorie.

"A friend of yours?" said Kathleen, bristling.

"No, not a friend, in a chaotic tangle, 'Mrs. — Miss—Miss—Er—er—"

Kathleen smiled: "Delighted to meet you, Miss Ererer."

"The pleasure is all mine," Marjorie said, with an acid smile.

"Have you known Harry long?" said Kathleen, jealously, "or are you just acquaintances on the train?"

"We're just acquaintances on the train!"

"I used to know Harry very well—very well indeed."

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

How Mrs. Reed of Peoria, Ill., Escaped The Surgeon's Knife.

Peoria, Ill.—"I wish to let every one know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. Fortwoyears I suffered. The doctor said I had a tumor and the only remedy was the surgeon's knife. My mother bought me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today I am a well and healthy woman. For months I suffered from inflammation, and your Sanative Wash relieved me. I am glad to tell anyone what your medicines have done for me. You can use my testimonial in any way you wish, and I will be glad to answer letters."—Mrs. CHRISTINA REED, 105 Mound St., Peoria, Ill.

Mrs. Lynch Also Avoided Operation.

Jessup, Pa.—"After the birth of my fourth child, I had severe organic inflammation. I would have such terrible pains that it did not seem as though I could stand it. This kept up for three long months, until two doctors decided that an operation was needed."

"Then one of my friends recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and after taking it for two months I was a well woman."—Mrs. JOSEPH A. LYNCH, Jessup, Pa.

Women who suffer from female ills should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, one of the most successful remedies the world has ever known, before submitting to a surgical operation.

"So I should judge. You won't mind if I leave you to talk over old times together?"

"How very sweet of you."

"Oh, don't mention it."

"But, Marjorie," Mallory cried, as she turned away. Kathleen started at the ardor of his tone, and gasped: "Marjorie! Then he—you—"

"Not at all—not in the least," said Marjorie.

At this crisis the room was suddenly inundated with people. Mrs. Whitcomb, Mrs. Wellington, Mrs. Temple and Mrs. Fosdick, all trying to look like bridesmaids, danced in, shouting:

"Here they come! Make way for the bride and groom!"

Sheep Shearing By Electricity.

A novel application of electric power is that of shearing sheep and clipping horses. The apparatus consists of a suitable electric motor connected by a flexible shaft to the ordinary shearing tool. The motor is of the two-speed type, and can be employed also to drive a rotating brush for grooming horses, or a small emery wheel for grinding the clipper combs—Scientific American.

The Hookworm.

Victims of hookworm disease suffer in proportion to the heaviness of their infection. Some persons have the disease who never suspect it, the only symptoms being lassitude, lack of endurance and frequent headaches. Others who are heavily infected are so physically and mentally debilitated that many of them have been known to lie in bed for years and years. The disease is rarely fatal, but it is an enemy of strength and, therefore, renders every one of its victims more liable to attacks from other diseases. Infection being usual in childhood, in bad cases the growth of the body is stunted, and in every case mental activity is retarded. Every person who has been treated has shown marked improvement, and as in a vast majority of cases treatment is followed by complete cure, the symptoms of the disease disappear and the victim is brought back to enjoyment of normal health and strength. Of course a body stunted by years of the disease cannot be miraculously brought up to normal size, but otherwise the effects of the disease disappear.—Frederic J. Haskin, in Atlanta Journal.

During the summer months mother of young children should watch for any unnatural looseness of the bowels. When given prompt attention at this time serious trouble may be avoided. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy can always be depended upon. For sale by all dealers.

How The Parker 1904 Boom Originated

Julius Chambers wrote and the Brooklyn Daily Eagle printed in its issue of Friday, June 21, prior to the Baltimore convention, the following interesting article:

The choice of a reactionary Democrat for the temporary chairmanship will be a fatal blunder—similar to that Penrose, Barnes, Crane & Co., perpetrated at Chicago. It will rend the democracy of the country exactly as the Republican party has been divided!

Therefore, Mr. Bryan is right in promptly opposing the selection of ex-Chief Justice Parker for the job.

Judge Parker, personally, is a most amiable and charming man. I have had the highest respect for him ever since I made the long ride from Kingston far into the foothills of the Catskills to accord, to visit him, prior to his election as chief justice of the court of appeals.

Everybody who knows Judge Parker must regret he is not in the front rank of the new political movement which the defeat of forty Roosevelts will not check!

But he isn't! Professional associations probably have much to do with his course.

The only hope of Democratic success in November—now that the Republican party is in the clutches of reactionaries—lies in the nomination at Baltimore of an out-and-out progressive candidate!

No man affiliated with monopolies, even as hired counsel, can be elected. That is too obvious to require argument.

Judge Parker is a corporation lawyer, as is Elihu Root. The selection of Senator Root was a tactical blunder on the part of the over-confident Republican bosses. Their conduct recalls Aesop's fable about the dog with the piece of meat. They controlled the convention and could have afforded to be moderate.

However, the same blunder is threatened at Baltimore, due to stubbornness and want of vision of Murphy, Taggart, Sullivan & Co. Mr. Bryan does right to protest against Judge Parker's selection, not for any personal blemish that can be named against him, but because his record is not that of a public man who has heard the loud cry of the American people for consideration from their public officials! Ninety-odd million people are tired of boss rule!

Judge Parker is not a boss; but he is the creation of bosses. The late David B. Hill made him a chief justice of the court of appeals and a coterie of bankers in Wall street had him nominated in 1904 to defeat Theodore Roosevelt, on the only occasion in which the latter ever ran for presidency. It might interest Judge Parker to know the facts about his nomination in 1904, because he may believe—as did the late Benjamin Harrison—that he was a selection by the Almighty and that Providence, instead of Mr. Belmont and others, was his backer. I happen to know every detail of the curious series of events by which Judge Parker was coaxed from the bench to be converted into a presidential candidate. Here they are:

In 1901, Wm. T. Manning and I incorporated the "Cosmographic company" for doing a general advertising business. The company's offices were on Broadway, and we were prosperous for the first year. A great deal of legitimate publicity was done for steamship and railroad companies. But at the end of the second year, finding that the income was not sufficient large to support the two of us, I turned my half of the corporation over to Mr. Manning. An offer came to me to make a business trip to the Orient and I was absent seven months.

Mr. Manning's long training as a politician had caused him to render signal service along the old lines in electing United States senators in legislatures susceptible to "influence" and in "managing" and "packing" city and state conventions. He had distinguished himself by securing the necessary votes for a certain United States senator in New Jersey when the candidate's friends had abandoned all hope.

This and other reasons caused Wm. T. Manning to be sent for in the early spring of 1904, and employed by a cabal of Wall street men to find and nominate a candidate to defeat the election of Roosevelt, who was nearly obnoxious to the moneyed interests.

Manning had been a particular favorite of Chairman Marcus A. Hanna, as I know. He was an exceptionally good talker and a good "mixer." After the whole field of democracy had been canvassed, Manning finally suggested Alton B. Parker; but when August Belmont and several others visited Esopus to "size up" the justice, they returned to this city dissatisfied. They feared he did not measure up to presidential size and so expressed themselves.

Another canvass was made; but not an acceptable Democrat this side of Lincoln, Neb.—and Bryan was repudiated—could be discerned. Attention reverted to Parker, and he was finally decided upon. A pool was formed and Manning, with a corps of assistants, went to work. Meanwhile, I had returned from Egypt and was in Washington as a correspondent. Mr. Manning came to the capital and laid the whole plan before me—especially informing me as to the sources of financial support. He was urgent that I join with him, but I positively declined.

Arrangements, he assured me, were making with newspapers in the large cities to print reading matter articles starting a "boom" for the justice. Every statement he made I afterward verified by examination of the journals named. Matrices and "boiler plate" began to go from the Manning establishment to all parts of the country, and I have since seen receipted bills for hundreds of columns of published matter. John P. Foley, a veteran editorial writer, Frank Morgan, and many other equally competent men were engaged to grind out yards of screed extolling the merits of Judge Parker—and these may truthfully be said to have been many.

When the time approached for holding the various state conventions, Mr. Manning took the road. He traveled this land from Maine to Oregon, from Minnesota to Texas. He attended and took part in nearly every Democratic state convention in the United States that summer and fall of 1904. In a great proportion of these deliberative bodies, he sat as a delegate by substitution. He was a fluent speaker, was possessed of tremendous energy, knew politicians of both parties in every state and was supplied with an unlimited amount of money from sources that I do not mention. He secured delegates throughout the south.

Of course, Judge Parker was not a party to this. He was not consulted and the truth was kept from him. When the requisite number of delegates had been secured, the task fell to Manning to prevent them from "getting away."

The only serious competitor at the democratic national convention of 1904 was W. R. Hearst, who had several state delegations. But his manager, "Andy" Lawrence, was no match for "Billy" Manning and the New Yorker delivered two-thirds of the delegates for Parker.

Mr. Bryan was out of the way and did nothing to help Hearst. Parker was nominated.

"Your man is nominated," said Manning to his employees; "but I do not undertake to elect him. I am a republican and must get busy for Roosevelt."

And he returned to the republican fold.

Manning spent most of the money given to him for services, in addition to several hundred thousand dollars "allowed" for expenses! He was the brains of the entire enterprise; but the hard work he performed and the excessive drinking that had to be done at the convention to keep delegates in line, permanently injured his health and he died, a broken-down man. He was buried by the Elks. One of his associates, whom I had found on the street and introduced to Manning, "cleaned up" a fortune!

That is exactly how Justice Parker happened to be chosen a candidate for the presidency. He never knew how or why the lightning struck him and will be surprised to learn the facts! After the excitement was over, Mr. Parker came to New York and at once entered into a highly profitable law practice. Therefore, Manning did him great service.

William Jennings Bryan knows all these details—and a thousand more that I might have mentioned but do not. Therefore, as a corporation lawyer, Mr. Parker stands in exactly the same position as Senator Root. He hasn't a thought of being "a progressive." He belongs to the same school as Mark Hanna, who taught Colonel Dick and William T. Manning the political methods in which he believed.

Whatever may be said about Mr. Bryan, nobody can charge him with having had a presidential nomination bought and presented to him—and he has thrice been a candidate for the highest office.

Naturally, he hopes the Baltimore convention will select a candidate imbued with progressive ideas.

HOME BUTTERMAKING

(Bulletin No. 10, Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station)

BY ALVIN J. REED

There is always a surfeit in inferior butter bringing from ten to fifteen cents per pound and scarcely fit for use. First class creamery butter always finds a ready market at double the price of the ordinary country butter.

The creamery buttermaker knows how to manage the cream and churn the butter, removing the buttermilk without overworking the butter, and he puts the product up in neat packages. Often he has dirty milk and cream to work with, conditions which he cannot control and which may be regulated by the home buttermaker, who by observing a few principles in preparing and putting up the butter can obtain creamery prices and often better.

The heat is the greatest difficulty at this time of the year and frequently causes the cream to be churned at a high temperature or makes the cream over ripe before churning, which causes strong butter. Buttermaking without a thermometer is guess work. A floating dairy thermometer may be bought for twenty-five cents and is almost indispensable.

Cream ripened until distinctly sour will churn out more butter than sweet cream. The churning should not be delayed, however, until the cream is over ripe. A temperature of 65 degrees to 68 degrees will ripen cream in six to eight hours at this season, but the cream must be cooled to 58 degrees to 60 degrees before churning. A satisfactory method is to keep the cream in spring water at 58 degrees to 60 degrees for twenty-four hours, stirring frequently. The proper churning temperature in summer is about 58 to 60 degrees and in winter 60 degrees to 62 degrees. In other words, use a temperature for churning that will bring the butter in not less than thirty minutes, preferably in about thirty-five or forty minutes. This insures a firm butter and the removal of all the butter from the buttermilk. Warm cream churns quickly but not completely. Difficult churning in winter is generally caused by unripened cream, churned too cold.

Do not over churn but stop when the butter is in granules the size of wheat or slightly larger, never "gather" but ter for this incorporates buttermilk in the mass, necessitating over working, and destroys the body of the butter, making it soft and oily, and preventing it from keeping well.

Butter is frequently ruined by trying to work out the buttermilk and water. Buttermilk should be washed out and not worked out. When the butter has come to the granular form, drain out the buttermilk from the bottom of the churn through a strainer or fine colander; wash the butter down with cold, clean water, tipping the churn back and forth three or four times, repeating the operation as long as any buttermilk remains. If the butter is too soft to work, use wash water a few degrees colder than the buttermilk. Allow the butter to stand in the water until firm. When the water is drained out, salt the granular butter in the churn, for this method insures the holding of the water and the distribution of the salt more evenly and also requires less working. Work the butter into a large roll, or if more convenient, work in the churn. It may be finished with a worker or in a wooden bowl. Working should cease when the salt is well mixed. More working is injurious.

The water should be left in the butter, as this makes better butter, more of it, and causes it to stand up like creamery butter. Fourteen to 15 per cent. of water is desirable, and will not be exceeded unless the butter is very soft, and warm wash water is used. Obtaining granules will be impossible with warm cream that churns in ten to fifteen minutes, or with high geared dashers in the churn. Use a hollow churn without dashers or paddles. A barrel, box or swing churn is satisfactory. Square or rectangular molds are best, being most easily wrapped and packed. Avoid waxed paper; use parchment only. A satisfactory one pound mold can be obtained for forty cents. The hand separator will insure more and better butter than hand skimming. Cream testing 30 to 35 per cent. butter fat is most readily churned.

A number of Kentucky dairies using these methods are selling butter for a higher price than the creameries because they make better butter.

Women as Well as Men are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root.

including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers who found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. the national convention at Chicago.

(2) We demand fairness, justice, and civic righteousness in politics, and denounce as highly dangerous to the interests of the people, and to the welfare of the government itself, the idea that crookedness, and corruption in politics can be winked at on the grounds that anything is fair in politics.

(3) We denounce the Republican National convention recently held at Chicago, for having committed the greatest political crime ever perpetrated in our country, in that he voice of an overwhelming majority of the Republican voters was set aside and overturned by the Republican National committee, thereby taking from Theodore Roosevelt a nomination that he had fairly won. We hold that the nomination of W. H. Taft is tainted by fraud, and that Republican voters are thereby absolved from all binding effect of the same and are not bound by party regularity or otherwise to support him.

(4) We view with alarm the probability or possibility of another Democratic administration, and invite all citizens of whatever political faith to join with us in this effort to prevent such a misfortune on the one hand, or the endorsement of the Chicago fraud on the other.

(5) We believe that a progressive party should look forward and not backward. To this end expansive investigations of courts and congressional committees, of abuses that are the natural results of designing and ill advised legislation, are not the best means to bring about ideal conditions. That we demand of our representatives in congress and all others that have an influence in shaping public affairs, that they should give their attention to affirmative legislation, of such character that its meaning should be self evident without long drawn out court procedures.

As the tariff and transportation questions are those on which the material welfare of the people depend as far as the influence of government action is concerned, we demand that in order to make the tariff effective to equalize the difference between wages at home and abroad, that a minimum wage should be established.

There is no protection to American labor in a tariff that raises price of products and allows the producer to import pauper labor and use it on an old world basis.

Whereas the railroads have abused the privilege accorded them by the legislation accorded them in 1910, to be exempt from the short and long haul clause of the act for the regulation of commerce, by taking advantage of technicalities to perpetuate the abuses which the legislation ostensibly claimed to remove; we demand that legislation be enacted for long and short haul regulations without exception in favor of any corporation or locality. We demand that the bill of Senator Kenyon of Iowa for a uniform classification of freight rates, in all sections of the country, be enacted into law, at the earliest possible moment and to be effective on its passage. We demand that all commodity rates be abolished; that the interstate commerce commission be given authority to correct freight rates and that no appeal shall be allowed from their decision.

(5) Resolved that the following named persons be appointed as delegates to the district convention at E'town: R. T. Polk, J. M. Fitch, Len Taul, J. C. Nolte, Dr. Shively, Oscar L. Black, J. T. McCoy, Oliver Shell man, Dr. S. P. Parks A. T. Adkins, J. L. Henry, Pierce Hardaway, C. L. Chamberlain, T. R. Blye, Thompson Johnson, John Lucas, Geo. Royalty, Jim Paul, John Rankin, McHenry Dowell, Sandford DeHaven, J. A. Sandbach, John Clark, Wm. Ahl, J. R. Eskridge, and Allen R. Kincheloe.

(7) Resolved that our delegates be and they are instructed to do everything in their power to secure the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt for president, and they are further instructed to vote for Jesse R. Eskridge as a delegate from the Fourth Congressional to the national convention at Chicago.

(signed)

W. B. Phelps
John Rankins
McHenry Dowell
Boyd McKaughn
C. L. Chamberlain
Jesse R. Eskridge.

Dr. S. P. Parks was chosen as temporary county chairman, to look after the county organization, and each precinct will select its precinct committeeman. The convention then adjourned.

R. T. Polk, Chmn.
O. L. Elack, Secy.

Of Interest To Farm Boys

A matter which should be of much interest to the farm boys of the State is the farm boys' encampment at the Kentucky State fair September 9-14. It will be for all farm boys who want to attend, and for 120 boys, one boy for each county in the State, it will be free. The selection of the boys will be made by a committee composed of county school superintendents, a member of the State board of agriculture, and a member of the faculty of the State university. This means that one farm boy of Daviess county will have a free trip to the State fair and the farm boys' encampment. Railroad fare and meals will be free. There will be tents on the grounds for the free use of the boys who are appointed to receive the trip.

The superintendent of the county school in each county will be directed to hold a competitive examination for boys between the ages of 12 and 17 and the boy obtaining the highest grade will be appointed county representative. The papers will be approved by a member of the State board of agriculture and a professor from the State university, so that politics or favoritism will not enter into the selection of representatives.

Professors from the extension department of the university will instruct the boys in agricultural matters each morning during the encampment and in the afternoon the boys will be taken to the exhibits of live stock, grain, etc., and explained why the premiums were awarded.

Each student will be required to write an essay for his local paper upon his return home, stating what he has learned at the school of instruction and relating his experiences during the fair.—Owensboro Enquirer.

There were one hundred and ten in attendance at Sunday school last Sunday. This is some below the high water mark reached a few Sundays ago when there were one hundred and twenty-nine present. If we can hold our own during the month of August, in September we will start on the upward pull for a school of two hundred.

There will be a short prayer meeting service Wednesday evening, and after the prayer meeting the Pastor will enroll the names of those who wish to take the Teacher Training Course and will assign the first lesson. The Pastor wants to enroll a large class and finish the first book by the fourth Sunday in September when the graduating exercises will be held and diplomas delivered by the State Secretary who will be present on that day. Let each one who expects to take the work, bring a good lead pencil. The text books and tables may be had at the church. At this meeting the class will decide on what night in the week they wish to meet regularly.

At the last business meeting of the church, the Pastor was called for all of his time to begin the first Sunday in September. The plan provides for the grouping of the membership into sixteen groups with two men at the head of each group. These group chairmen met at the church last Sunday afternoon and made up the different groups. The canvass will be completed in the main this week. The men are taking hold of the work with enthusiasm and the outcome is encouraging. The group chairmen are as follows: 1.—C. E. Lightfoot and Albert McKaughan. 2.—R. O. Willis and Sam Furrow. 3.—S. The Wreck At Rock Haven

Instead of a carload of horses going down in the wreck at Rock Haven, as was reported last week, there was only one on the train and it was saved. Instead of fourteen freight cars going into the river, one car and the engine were covered with an avalanche of mud. The wreck was bad enough but no, as bad as the public thought. Several said here that they saw the dead horses floating down the river. This is a good example, that one can't afford to believe half he sees and hears. The trains are expected to go through to Louisville this week.

Mr. Hoffious Behen, agent for the Henderson Route, is living like the world had been turned up-side-down this week on account of the change in the train schedule. Postmaster Oelze is living like the world was standing still and tried to move again about every ten hours. People come in at the regular train hours and ask for their mail the same as if trains were running regular. Mr. Marion Denton, telegraph operator at the shops, had a most thrilling experience Sunday night of the wreck in getting orders for train No. 164.
